About the USA – Virtual Classroom
Newsletter for English Teachers

In this issue:
News for Students | Elections 2008 | Teaching Literature: Contemporary Literature for Young Adults
This Month: St. Patrick’s Day and Women’s History Month | Web Chat Station & Education USA | Leipzig Book Fair

NEWS for STUDENTS
Discuss current news -- such as Kosovo’s Independence or the dramatic fall of the U.S. Dollar in class -- using NEWS WEBSITES for students.

Kosovo
On Feb 17, after lengthy negotiations with Serbia led by the EU/Russia/U.S. troika, the elected representatives of the people of Kosovo declared the province’s independence. “A longer delay in independence would have contributed to greater regional instability. Kosovo’s unique history, its long period under U.N. administration and the diplomatic process that led to U.N. Special Envoy Martti Ahtisaari’s 12-point plan for independence following a period of international supervision make its situation unique.” America.gov: Kosovo’s Independence

PBS NewsHour Extra: Kosovo Becomes Newest Nation
The Serbian province of Kosovo -- which is made up of a largely ethnic Albanian population -- has declared independence and become the world’s newest nation.

• Related Coverage: News for Students
  Serbia Cleared of Genocide But Guilty of Inaction
  Milosevic’s War Crimes Trial
  Birth of Democracy in the Former Yugoslavia

• The Online NewsHour
  U.S. Envoy Discusses Kosovo Independence Declaration
  U.N.-Backed Talks Deadlock Over Kosovo Status

• NYT Topics: Kosovo

Quote: “I want to be very clear that we see a future in which Kosovo and Serbia are both strong and free and in which both are fully integrated into the Euro-Atlantic horizon and Euro-Atlantic structures...” – Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice

America.gov: Bush Hails Kosovo Independence
Pledging to work with Kosovo for a peaceful transition, President Bush says, “Kosovo committed itself to the highest standards of democracy, including freedom and tolerance and justice for citizens of all ethnic backgrounds. These are principles that honor human dignity; they are values America looks for in a friend.”

The Fall of the Dollar
The EURO has reached a new high against the dollar, with the 15-nation currency at one point worth $1.5087. The drop in the dollar came after a series of dour reports on the U.S. economy and expectations that the Federal Reserve will continue slashing interest rates. CNN full story

PBS NewsHour Extra: Sliding U.S. Dollar Packs a Wallop to Wallets Worldwide - The dollar, once one of the world’s strongest currencies, has fallen dramatically in recent years -- a development impacting attitudes from corporate boardrooms to the sets of music videos where artists are choosing to flash the EURO over U.S. Dollars. PBS full story

Links
• PBS NewsHour EXTRA: Stagflation Threatens U.S. Economy
• PBS Lesson Plan: The Fall of the Dollar
ELECTIONS 2008

The Internet - A Powerful Tool in U.S. Politics

The Internet is having a great influence on this year's race for President. Internet allows people to learn about candidates faster and is believed to be encouraging young people to think about the presidential campaign.

eJournal USA: The New Media and U.S. Politics

New technologies and their savviest users are leaving their stamp on many U.S. election campaigns – exposing candidate gaffes, boosting fundraising, and reshaping the news cycle. [...] The World Wide Web and the accompanying explosion in "new media" have forced an upheaval in U.S. politics in at least four areas, creating 1) innovative ways to reach voters; 2) a radically changed news system; 3) an unprecedented flood of small donors; and 4) newly empowered interest groups on the left and the right. Read Columbia University Professor Thomas B. Edsall’s article on the influence of the new media on U.S. politics.

PBS: A Race to Watch

Campaign 2008 - The Role of Technology and the Internet

Students analyze the use of technology in the political and campaign process and examine how this new medium might impact the outcome of the 2008 presidential election.

Presidential Campaigns Explore a New Medium

Several presidential hopefuls, including Senators Clinton and Obama, have used the Internet to announce their candidacy. A political media expert analyzes the impact that the Internet will have on campaigns for the 2008 presidency.

Voice of America: Internet Becomes Powerful Political Tool

Nov 12, 2007 - While political campaigns in the United States have used the Internet since the 1990s, the importance of the Internet has grown dramatically in the current campaign for the White House. In this segment of "How America Elects," VOA’s Jeffrey Young looks at how candidates and their parties make strategic use of cyberspace.

Technology Transforms Youth Vote in 2008 Election

Feb 24, 2008 - Young people have proven to be an important political force in the 2008 election cycle. Changes in technology are enabling them to get involved in politics in new and interesting ways. Mindy Finn is a Republican strategist, and former director of e-Strategy for Mitt Romney’s presidential campaign. Joshua Levy is with techPresident.com, a company that tracks how the 2008 presidential candidates and their supporters are using the Internet. They explore the youth vote in 2008.

Article

ResearchPennState: Can a Woman be Elected President? - "The U.S. has yet to have a woman come close to winning the presidency. Professor Gutgold thinks this has had more to do with issues other than gender."

Teaching Resources

- NYT Learning Network: Girl Power?
- Examining the Role of Gender in American Politics and Society: In this lesson (Grades 6-8, 9-12) students examine the impact of gender role expectations on their own lives and those of ordinary Americans and compare their findings with the influence of gender role expectations on contemporary American presidential politics. (Feb 11, 2008)

- NYT Learning Network: Workin’ (More Than) 9 to 5 (Grades 6-8, 9-12)
- Exploring the Roles of Men and Women in Today's World: In this lesson, students will consider how men and women are alike and different, and explore society’s expectations of how members of each gender should balance work and family life. (June 1, 2007)

Gender and Politics

In recent political history, only a handful of female presidential candidates made the effort: Margaret Chase Smith (1964), Shirley Chisholm (1972), Patricia Schroeder (1988) and Sen. Elizabeth Dole (R-N.C.) in 2000.

NPR: In Politics, Gender and Race Vie for Top Billing

Feb 17, 2008 - A discussion about "the prominence of identity politics as Clinton and Obama compete over the Democratic nomination. Which is more fundamental, more essential: gender or race? Whose "turn" is it - the white women’s or the black man’s? Liane Hansen speaks to Diane Roberts and poet E. Ethelbert Miller about race and identity in the U.S.

Questions for Discussion:

- How important do you think personal characteristics, such as race, gender, religion, etc. should be in electing a presidential candidate?
- How important is it to have representatives from different groups?

NEW publication: Women in Politics: Making a Difference in the USA. Interviews with women who are changing the face of politics.

NPR Opinion Piece: When Women Rule

By Nicholas D. Kristof, Feb 10, 2008. "While no woman has been president of the U.S. — yet — the world does have several thousand years’ worth of experience with female leaders. […] Their historical record puts men’s to shame."
Six months before Polly Cai n drowned in the canal, my sister, Nona, ran off and married a cowboy. My father said there was a time when he would have been able to stop her, and I wasn't sure if he meant a time in our lives when she would have listened to him, or a time in history when the Desert Valley Sheriff's Posse would have been allowed to chase after her with torches and drag her back to our house by her yellow hair.
1. EDUCATION USA WEBCHAT

   THIS MONTH

   St. Patrick’s Day - Irish Immigrants in the United States

   Irish immigrants had a rough start in the United States, stuck in urban poverty and taunted by some of their neighbors. They and their descendants overcame the obstacles and prevailed. Today the Irish are one of the most prosperous ethnic groups in the U.S., significantly exceeding national averages on education levels, occupational status, and income. In line with their steady upward social mobility during the 20th century, the American Irish moved out of the tight-knit urban communities of the Northeast and Midwest to settle in suburbs, towns, and cities across the U.S. They also married increasingly outside their ethnic group, first with other Catholics and then with Americans generally. The result of these developments is a much less cohesive sense of communal identity than in the past. But Irish Americans retain a strong sense of ethnic pride, especially in politics and culture. Article

   National Public Radio:

   What of American Democracy Is Worth Exporting? Listen Now All Things Considered, Marianne McCune, February 20, 2008: How do immigrants to this country view the messy process of democracy? What would they like to bring home to their own countries? In the midst of the primary season, immigrants in New York City talk about their perceptions of the process and the problems. What they’re observing is messy and complicated, often angry and combative, and sometimes inspiring. They’re taking mental notes on what works and what doesn’t.

   Women’s History Month & International Women’s Day

   CNN Student News: March is Women’s History Month, a federally recognized, nationwide celebration that encourages Americans to reflect on the ways in which women have shaped U.S. history. But how did this celebration come to be, and why is it held in March?

   Teaching Resource

   American Women’s History provides citations to print and Internet reference sources, as well as to selected large primary source collections. Many of the Digital Collections of Primary Sources are appropriate for high school and perhaps middle school students.

   LEIPZIG BOOK FAIR

   The Consulate General Leipzig is once again present with a booth, at which our colleagues will display a wide variety of the latest American titles, all generously contributed by U.S. publishers. After the Fair, CG Leipzig will be presenting these books to university, city and school libraries throughout eastern Germany. There will also be on hand free copies of the New York Review of Books and other U.S. publications. The Consulate’s booth will be located in Halle 4 D301.

   “KRAUTGARDEN” American and German authors team up to read from their works… including Uljana Wolf, Christian Hawkey, Ulrike Almut Sandig, Christopher Edgar and Peter Licht. Alte Baumwollspinnerei, Spinnereistraße 7, Leipzig Friday, March 14, 20:00 - open end http://leipzig.usconsulate.gov/

---

Links

- America.gov: Diversity
- Library of Congress: [Irish-Catholic Immigration](http://www.loc.gov/c cioè/)
- National Women’s History Project (NWHP)
- Library of Congress Learning Page: Her Story
- University of Wash. Libraries: [History of Women](http://www.lib.washington.edu/historywomen/
- Scholastic: Women Who Changed History
- Library of Congress: American Women
- Library of Congress: Teaching Resource

Images/Fukada

- St. Patrick’s Day - Irish Immigrants in the United States

---

About the USA

About the USA is a digital collection of background resources on American society, culture, and political processes. In addition to featuring selected websites, it provides access to documents in full text format (E-Texts) on topics ranging from the history of German-American relations, government and politics to travel, holidays and sports.

This newsletter is produced by the Information Resource Centers/U.S. Diplomatic Mission to Germany.

Request password to download articles: usa.usembassy.de/classroom/newsletter_reg.htm

Order articles via the IRC in your consular district. See: usa.usembassy.de/classroom/

Questions? Contact: classroom@usembassy.de